KOOP FILES FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Former Dallas Councilwoman Linda Koop today filed her papers to be placed on the Republican ballot for Texas State Representative, House District 102 in Dallas County.

Koop enters the campaign with the almost unanimous support of local elected officials. Koop has earned the support of virtually every local elected official in the North Dallas County district.

“This district needs strong consistent conservative leadership,” said Koop. “It will be a tough campaign so having so many excellent and respected local leaders beside me gives me a huge advantage.”

“There are many problems that must be dealt with in the next session,” said Koop. “From the problems created by Obamacare; to making sure we keep our economic edge; and finally, to begin addressing the problems in Texas education. There is so much to be done and I am eager to get to work.
