SID MILLER MAKES REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FOR AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONER OFFICIAL

Former Chairman of Texas House Agriculture and Livestock Committee files with Republican Party of Texas to appear on March GOP Primary Ballot. Announces that Joe Beaver and David Riddle will join Ted Nugent as Campaign Co-Chairs

Austin, Texas—Sid Miller, the former Chairman of the Texas House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock, today made his Republican campaign for Texas Agriculture Commissioner official by filing the necessary documents with the Republican Party of Texas to become a candidate in the March 4th, 2014 GOP Primary.

In making his Republican candidacy official, Miller, a farmer, rancher, cattle feeder, and commercial nurseryman, said that he would bring the experience of a six-term legislator, a proven conservative leader, and a working agriculturist to the office of Texas Agriculture Commissioner.

"I earn my living from the land and have spent my entire life working in and promoting Texas Agriculture," Miller said. "Our agriculture industry, our Texas heritage, and our rural way of life are under constant attack by the Obama Administration and out-of-control radical environmentalists. I'm running for Texas Agriculture Commissioner to protect our agriculture heritage, defend our rights, protect consumers, and to preserve the values that have made Texas great," Miller added.

"No current candidate running for Agriculture Commissioner, Republican or Democrat has the unique mix of experience that I bring to the race for this important office," said Miller.

Miller said that his campaign had gotten off to a great start and that his appointment of Ted Nugent, the well-known rock star, sportsman, hunter, NRA Board Member, and defender of the constitution, as his Campaign Treasurer and Co-Chairman, had provided a tremendous boost to his campaign and had received media coverage across Texas and the nation.

"I am proud to have Ted Nugent standing with me in this campaign" said Miller. "I am also proud to have eight-time World Champion Rodeo Cowboy Joe Beaver of Huntsville join with Ted as one of my three Statewide Campaign Chairs. Joe Beaver is a household name amongst the hundreds of thousands of Texans who follow professional rodeo. Joe is a great leader, a man of deep faith, a wonderful role model for our children, and someone who personifies what being a Texan is all about.

Miller said that he has also appointed David Riddle of Tomball as his 3rd Statewide Campaign Chair, Riddle who is the son of conservative State Representative Debbie Riddle, is a world-class Texas horseman whose horses hold 14 World Championships. In 1996, David earned the title of high point in the nation overall. In addition to his world class horsemanship, David is a well-respected conservative leader who is the Chairman for Texas Senate District 7, the most Republican Senatorial District in the State of Texas.

"I am honored to have David Riddle join my Campaign Team," said Miller. "Not only does David have an in-depth knowledge of the Equine Industry and Texas Agri-business, he is also a proven Republican leader who has worked to build and strengthen the Republican Party in Senate District 7, in Harris County, and across Texas. I am confident that David will work hand-in-hand with Ted Nugent and Joe Beaver to lead our campaign to victory in March and once again in November," concluded Miller.
