PRESS RELEASE

Staples Officially Files for Lt. Governor

AUSTIN, TX- Today, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Todd Staples filed papers with the Republican Party of Texas to officially become a candidate for Lieutenant Governor. The event took place in Austin at the Republican Party of Texas Headquarters before a crowd of enthusiastic supporters.

“Texans are hungry for new leadership and that is why today, I am officially filing to become a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 2014. I am excited to continue to take our message of consistent conservative leadership to the voters, and I invite all Texans to join our campaign to fight for our shared conservative values,” stated Staples.

This week, Staples announced a strong group of supporters for his statewide Finance Team. The team includes more than 200 well-known Republican donors from across Texas. As of the last campaign finance-reporting period in July, Staples led all Republican candidates in the race for Lieutenant Governor with nearly $3 million cash on hand and topped the field in individual campaign donors. In addition to the Finance Committee, major conservative grassroots endorsements include more than 100 leading members of the Texas Federation of Republican Women (TFRW), George Rodriguez (former President of the San Antonio TEA Party), and the South Texas Property Rights Association, one of the state’s leading border security associations.

“With less than 90 days until early voting begins, our campaign continues to build momentum. With the support of conservative leaders across Texas, I am confident that we will be successful in March,” concluded Staples.
