Republican Sam Brown.
Leadership defined by service & sacrifice.

“Honor, loyalty, respect and personal courage. These are the values that define Sam Brown, and he deserves our support.”

Roger Staubach
Retired Naval Officer & Vietnam Veteran

Retired Army Captain Sam Brown. The patriot we need in the Texas House.

After the terror attacks of 9/11, Sam Brown made a  very personal decision that would forever change the course of his life – he decided to follow in his father’s footsteps and join the United States military. He was accepted to the United States Military Academy at West Point, following the lead of some of America’s greatest leaders.

After graduation, Sam was rewarded with a great responsibility – directing a platoon of soldiers amid heavy combat in the Kandahar Desert of Afghanistan, one of the most dangerous regions in the world.

In September of 2008, while providing backup to an ambushed patrol, Sam’s vehicle drove over an improvised explosive device that left him fighting for his life.

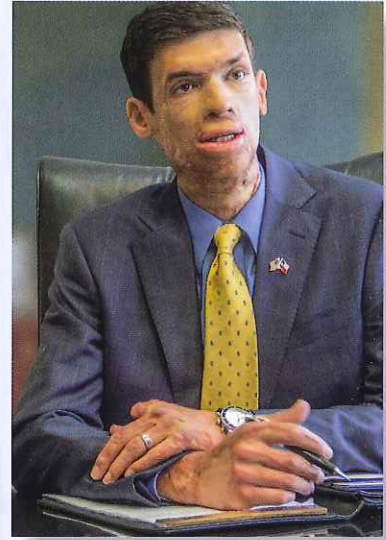

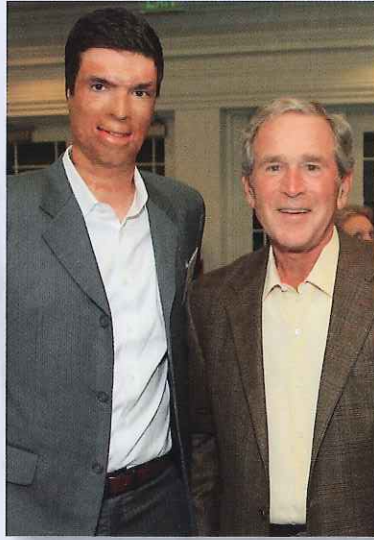

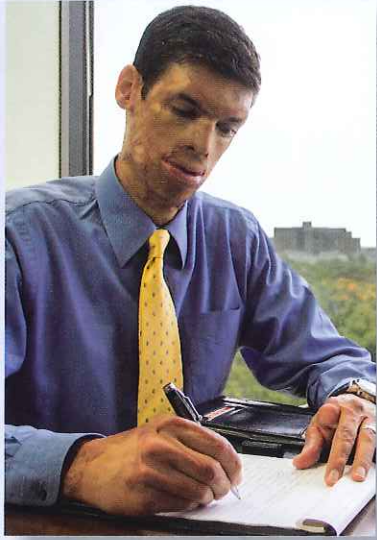

With more than thirty surgeries at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Sam’s recovery was long and intensive. Unable to continue his service on the battlefield, Sam re-focused his service-minded spirit toward new opportunities of service, and moved to Dallas to help launch a new non-profit supporting returning veterans.

“As Army officers, we value integrity, hard work and personal ethics. These are the same qualities we should demand from our elected leaders.

As your State Representative, I’ll lead by these guiding values, and you can always count on me to do what’s right for our families and taxpayers ... that’s who I’m there to serve.”

we need working for jobs and growth.”

Businessman Sam Brown.

Committed to opportunity & growth.

For his leadership experience and first-hand perspective ★★ as a returning veteran, Roger Staubach tapped Sam Brown to help launch Allies In Service, a non-profit organization serving veterans returning to civilian life in the Dallas area. Under Sam's leadership, Allies was successfully launched and has helped many returning soldiers find jobs and access other community resources

Eager to put his management and business skills to use, Sam started his own small business in District 102, providing global development and project management services for a wide variety of businesses. The company, Pruitt, Winston & Brothers, was named in honor of two soldiers who paid the ultimate sacrifice serving our country alongside Sam and his business partner.

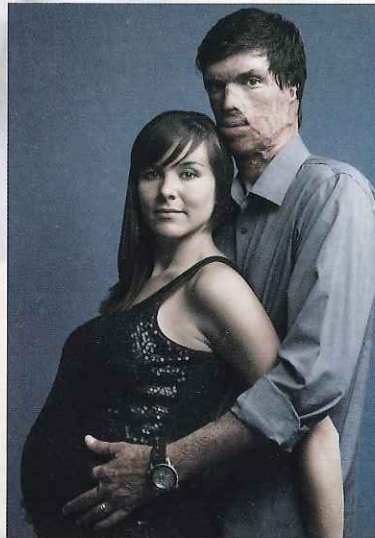

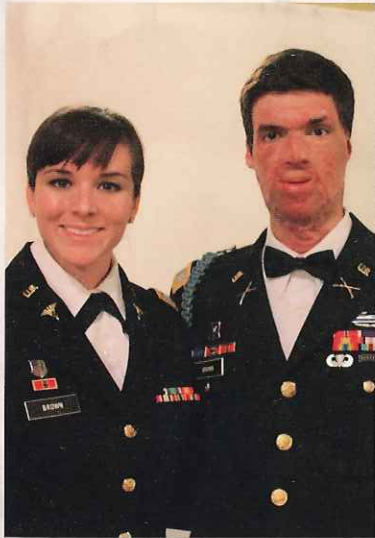

From his hands-on experience working with governmental entities and agencies, Sam became keenly aware of the need for a more efficient government that doesn't nickel and dime our small business community with red tape, fees and useless regulations. Sam believes we should remove these roadblocks to prosperity and give our business community the freedom to grow and create new jobs.

“As a businessman, I’ve seen firsthand the consequences of a wasteful, overreaching bureaucracy.

As your State Representative, I’ll use my business skills to help state government work smarter. That means spending wisely and focusing our limited revenue on basics that our economy needs to thrive like better schools, new water resources and improved roads.”

Sam Brown

“Sam is committed to the conservative ideals that protect our families, and our future. We need his fresh voice in Austin.”

Family man Sam Brown.

Putting our families ahead of politics.

During his long recovery from wounds suffered during ★★ battle, Sam met First Lieutenant Amy Larsen, an Army dietitian and veteran of the Iraq conflict. Sam credits Amy for guiding him through the tough times with her strength, passion and strong faith. They quickly became inseparable and were married in 2009.

Amy and Sam selected North Dallas as the place where they wanted to live and raise their family. Now, with two small children, the Browns are energetic leaders in our community, committed to serving and working for the good of their neighbors. The Browns are active members of Watermark Church, where they lead the Military Ministry and Amy teaches children's church.

Sam Brown's pledge to District 102 is simple – he will always do what is right for our community. That means ignoring the partisanship and political games that dominate politics these days, and instead focusing our state government on the services and policies that help strengthen neighborhoods, like schools and public safety.

“Amy and I selected this community as our home because we knew it was the best place to plant roots and grow a family.

Too often, politicians are far too willing to leave problems unsolved or kick the can down the road instead of making the tougher decisions we need to protect our next generation. As a husband and father, I'll always put our families first – simply because it's the right thing to do.”
